

PLAY

Zandi Mbale and Pulane Kingston.

Lulu Xingwana and Lindiswa Jabavu.

Ballerina Jessica van Schalkwyk, Marat Nefengunov and Head of SA Ballet Theatre, Andries Weidemann.

Mvelaphanda Resources CEO, Pine Pansar and Nomazizi Mshotshisa, Mvelaphanda Resources Director.

TEA-ING OFF

Leading ladies and gents in pink, green or yellow, sipping tea and playing golf – what better way to spend a festive Friday?

WHAT: Madame Deputy President Phumzile Mlambo-Ngcuka's celebratory tea party for the rise of women in golf.

WHERE: Oliver Tambo House, Arcadia in parliament and business – think Minister Lulu Xingwana from the Department of Agriculture; TRUE LOVE food editor, Dorah Sitole, as well as the guest of honour, Madame Deputy President Mlambo-Ngcuka, who also invited young girl golfers from the Ernie Els Fancourt Foundation to join the celebrations.

THE BUZZ: Hundreds of golf patrons and network moguls gathered to play golf, schmooze and donate blankets and jackets to the NOAH Aids community.

Deputy President Phumzile Mlambo-Ngcuka with a guest.

Eunice Sibya and TL food editor, Dorah Sitole.

BELLE OF THE BALLET

Ballet history was made when, for the first time ever in a South African ballet production, a black female ballerina, Loma Maseko, danced the lead role!

WHAT: Ballet Highlights Les Sylphides and Don Quixote.

WHERE: The South African State Theatre, Pretoria

WHO'S WHO: Friends and family turned up in droves to support Loma at her debut. These ranged from the famous to the not so famous as well as representatives from the multimillion rand company, Mvelaphanda, such as director of Mvelaphanda Resources, Nomazizi Mshotshisa, and investment banker Zandi Mbale. Camera-shy for the day, Tumisho Masha was also spotted.

THE BUZZ: Sampling excerpts from famous ballets such as Romeo and Juliet, Two Pigeons and Sleeping Beauty, the production of Ballet Highlights was a spectacle.

Nomazizi Mshotshisa and Thulisa Mshotshisa.

Windisa Kilani and Nosipho Ndoyogale.

Kumbirai Chitara and Thuli Mawane.

Photo: Mvelaphanda Resources and David Soko